RAILWAY EMPLOYEES TAKING STRIKE BALLOT Hundreds Are Fleeing, Fearing Break In Levee

LABORERS FIGHTING TO PREVENT WATER BREAKING THROUGH GREAT EARTHWORKS
Appeals Sent Out Asking Volunteers To Help In The Defense
Water Pouring Through, But No Loss Of Life Yet Reported

(International News Service)
MEMPHIS, April 22—Hundreds of families were fleeing to the hills today as a break in the Mississippi levee at Tunica, Miss., appeared imminent. Some hope was held that the break would be averted as the swollen river was carrying huge trunks away from the earthworks as the swift current battered at the embankment walls. Five hundred volunteer laborers have been laboring day and night in what seems to be a vain hope that the break will be averted. The men have been working continuously for 18 hours and have sent appeals for relief. In a telephone message to Memphis, William Head, in charge of the 38th Mississippi levee district, did not attempt to minimize the danger. The stretch where the flood was threatening was one of the most vital danger points between Memphis and New Orleans. Following Mr. Head's statement, the Salvation Army here offered free transportation and board to men who would go to Tunica and work on the levee. NEW ORLEANS, April 22—The Mississippi levee at Myrtle Grove, 8 miles below New Orleans, broke this morning. Water is pouring through a crevice on the west bank of the river and will inundate the adjacent territory. There was no loss of life.

K. OF P. TO HOLD IMPORTANT MEET
The Knights of Pythias will hold an important meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Decatur hall, the event being in the nature of a special meeting to plan a series of entertainments to be given during the next few months by the order. W. H. Weakley, of Huntsville, past grand chancellor, will deliver an address. An added feature will be a debate: "Resolved that in the story of Damon and Pythias, Pythias showed the higher traits of character." The affirmative will be upheld by J. Robert Daniell and Judge L. P. Troup. The negative will be taken by Clyde Hendrix and S. A. Lynne. Music will be rendered by a male quartet and refreshments will be served in the lodge rooms. RECOGNITION GIVEN
MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 22—(Special)—Announcement was made by the state military department today that federal recognition had been extended by the war department to Captain Ollie B. Mabry and Second Lieutenant Herbert H. Brush, of Birmingham, officers of Company I, 167th infantry, Alabama National Guard.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR ENDING ANTHRACITE STRIKE DEADLOCKED

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 22—Although the anthracite operators and representatives of the miners have been in session almost continuously for five weeks, not only has no agreement been reached, but today the deadlock which has been prophesied, seemed a certainty as the operators are insisting upon a reduction in wages and the miners' leaders refuse to consider it. "We have informed the representatives of the anthracite miners, with whom we have been in conference, that it was our firm conviction that wage and other demands, which would result in an increase in the price of coal, would not be granted," declared S. E. Warriner, spokesman for the operators. "Not only can there be no increase, but there must be a substantial reduction in wages." "We will not consider any reduction in wages," said Phillip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers.

A Painful, But Not Dangerous Accident

At noon today a painful accident was sustained by Miss Emma Pride, daughter of Mrs. Emma Pride, when she fell from an automobile at the corner of Sixth and Sherman streets. The cause of the accident was the collision of two automobiles. A considerable wound was made just above Miss Pride's forehead on the right side of her head, and she was rendered unconscious for the space of about half an hour, according to Dr. J. F. Sturdivant, who with other neighbors, went to render assistance. Dr. Sturdivant said that from what he could see the wound was caused by the girl's head striking either the hard pavement or the street curbing near the wreck. At last accounts Miss Pride had regained consciousness, her wound had been dressed by physicians and she was resting well. No fear were felt as to her early and complete recovery.

DEMOCRATS GIRDING THEMSELVES FOR A BATTLE ON TARIFF

WASHINGTON, April 22—Democratic senators girded themselves today for a smashing, organized offensive against the tariff bill. Republican leaders declared they were prepared for the Democratic onslaught. Some of them charged a Democratic filibuster was threatened, but they expressed confidence that the administration forces would force the bill through in six weeks, despite any obstacles its opponents threw in its way. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democratic member of the finance committee, was busily engaged with his associates in mapping out a series of attacks on the bill, which are to begin Monday by Senator King, of Utah, who has been placed in charge of the chemical schedules on the Democratic side. Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, was assigned to the wool schedule and to the tariff on hides, leather and leather goods. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, was to join Senators Simmons and Walsh in giving particular attention to the cotton schedules, while Senators Jones, of New Mexico, and Gerry, of Rhode Island, were among the other Democrats who were "specializing" on certain other provisions of the bill which the minority members hope to find vulnerable to their attacks.

HUNTSVILLE CHURCH GETS NEXT MEETING OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S 2 ORGANIZATIONS

District Convention Concludes Meeting at the Central Baptist Church
SESSIONS ARE BUSY ON THE FINAL DAY
Dr. Wm. Blackwelder Preaches Last Sermon of the Meeting

The district convention of the B. Y. P. U. societies for the Northern district of Alabama closed a three days session here at noon today. The final number of the program was an inspiring address by Dr. W. M. Blackwelder of Huntsville, on "The Lure of the Bible," in which it was declared that the Bible, like nature, was inviolate so far as men's hands are concerned; and that as God did not allow the mutilation of nature whether as to human bodies, animals, trees or flowers, He would not allow changes made in Holy Writ, with impunity. By a standing vote, the invitation of the First Baptist Church of Huntsville for the next convention of the Baptist Young people of this part of the state was accepted. Rev. W. P. Wilks, pastor of the Central Baptist Church where all the sessions of convention were held, said that 70 delegates were registered from Athens, Florence, Hartselle, Sheffield, Mooresville, Huntsville and other neighboring communities. Added to this number were scores of young people in attendance from the Twin Cities. No officers were elected, as this convention is a part of the state organization of Baptist Young People. A solemn testimonial was passed by the convention just before the final address of Dr. Blackwelder, in memory of the late Mrs. J. O. Williams, whose husband is pastor of the Baptist church at Athens, came in the form of appreciative resolutions unanimously passed by the delegates standing to their feet. It was announced that tomorrow at 3 p. m. the Twin City B. Y. P. U. meets at the First Baptist Church of Decatur. A debate will feature this meeting on the respective claims to

That its field of activity is linked with and is part of one of the greatest organizations known for helpful measures when they are most needed?
That the minimum price of membership puts it within the reach of all; the benefits accruing from such a membership are many times more than the price paid for membership?
That the access its members have in its reading room, its library, are worth to each individual member alone the price paid for membership?
That it furnishes a place, a central point where friend can meet friend and while away the hours of recreation in a most befitting manner?
That it is worthy the support of all; it is non-sectarian and only desires to be helpful to all?

MRS. LOUIS A. NEIL IS ELECTED FEDERATED CLUBS PRESIDENT

MRS. LOUIS A. NEIL

Mrs. Louis A. Neil, prominent local club woman and former state secretary has been elected president of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs. The election came just before the conclusion of the annual convention held late yesterday in Tuscaloosa. The office is the highest office within the gift of the federation and Mrs. Neil today was receiving congratulations of her many friends in the Twin Cities on the honor conferred upon her. Mrs. Neil has been identified with club work in the Twin Cities and the state and their success has been aided largely by her efforts. In her larger field of endeavor, she is certain to continue leading the state federation on to a greater service for the state. She has been an active factor in the elimination of illiteracy in Alabama and has done much effective work in many lines of women's endeavor. An additional honor came to Albany in the selection of this city as winner in the fourteenth district in the federation's "cleaner city contest". Votes for the election of officers were cast by secret ballot and resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Louis A. Neil, Albany; Mrs. Oscar Dugger, Andalusia, first vice-president; Mrs. Carrol Long, Selma, second vice-president; Mrs. Harry Rett, Huntsville, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. S. Herring, Anniston, recording secretary; Mrs. George G. Brownell, Tuscaloosa, treasurer; Mrs. C. C. Adams, Birmingham, auditor; Mrs. J. Brevard Jones, general Federation director. The new officers were introduced each making short, appropriate talks, pledging their best effort toward the upbuilding of the Federation. A rising vote of thanks was accorded to outgoing officers, all of whom have given such splendid service. Mrs. J. Brevard Jones responded with a few words expressing her appreciation of the splendid co-operation of the Federation women. A resolution was passed to pledge $500 toward the upbuilding of General Federation headquarters home in Washington. Individual pledges were then made by Mrs. Louis A. Neil, Mrs. Sidney J. Hart, Mrs. Thomas M. Owen, $100 each, and another resolution was passed to ask each of the clubs in the Federation to pledge $5 annually to this fund. Realizing the importance of library work, a resolution was passed to request an adequate appropriation from the legislature for this work in the state. Report of the courtesy written by Mrs. W. E. Turnipseed was read and the session adjourned at noon.

HERE WEDNESDAY TO COMPLETE THE MERCHANTS' UNIT

Local members of the retail merchants' credit unit were advised this afternoon that the state organization is sending a representative here Wednesday to complete the organization of the local branch. A meeting will be arranged for Wednesday, probably to be held in the Albany chamber of commerce, when all members of the association will be expected to be in attendance. WEATHER

SUB-COMMITTEE DRAFTING REPORT ON SHOALS OFFER

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 22—A sub-committee of the house military affairs committee today began the work of drafting the report on what action congress should take on Muscle Shoals. The committee, headed by Representative Greene, of Vermont, had before it four offers made the government for lease and operation of the Shoals property as it began its work. Drafting a report is expected to take at least a week. It will then be submitted to full committee before adoption for transmission to the house. WASHINGTON, April 22—Hydro- (Continued on Page 4)

UNIONS OPPOSED TO ALLEGED "FARMING OUT" SYSTEM USED FOR PLACING WORK

Menace of Strike Involving 600,000 Railroad Workers, Looms Today
DECISION REACHED FOR VOTE AT CONVENTION
Unions Declare Roads Are Resorting To Subterfuge For Evasion
(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 22—The menace of a railway strike, involving 600,000 members of the American Federation of Labor, loomed again today as officials of the department began sending out strike ballots to the membership. Decision to take a strike vote was reached at the bi-ennial convention which has been in session here two weeks. Seven unions are involved, including the six federated shop crafts and the Switchmen's Union of North America. The chief grievance of the men, according to B. M. Jewell, president of the department, is over the alleged violation of the railroads of rulings of the United States railway labor board, through the "farming out" system of railway shop work. The union charges that the roads, by contracting with outside shops to do the railway repair work, in reality are resorting to subterfuge to evade the rulings of the board. The shops doing the work, it is pointed out, are outside the jurisdiction of the board. "The carriers have been getting away with it thus far," said Jewell. "We are going to find out if they can continue to do so." Jewell said that the result of the strike vote probably would be known within 60 days and predicted that the vote probably would be overwhelmingly in favor of a strike. He declared the issue would be fought to a finish.

STUMP PULLER IS SEEN HERE

The demonstration of stump pulling attracted many local residents to the scene, near the centery, yesterday afternoon. The puller, made by the Dorsey company, at Elma, Ala., is attached to a Fordson tractor and the operation was a complete success. The puller, by a series of mechanical devices, pulls the stump from the ground by the roots, apparently no load being too great for the little machine. The machine, it is said, will lift 35 tons on a direct pull. It is portable and may be easily taken from place to place. The demonstration was very successful and local people learned much of the new method of clearing land. The demonstration was given by the Burk Auto company.

NOT TOO SEVERE?

We often hear the remark that the churches of the land are not functioning, that other institutions which have for their end the amelioration of wrong, and the setting up of standards which are right and just are not accomplishing what they claim. But suppose for one year's time that all these institutions were done away with. That the doors of every church were kept sealed; that institutions of a benevolent character closed up shop; that the efforts of the good and true were to stop; that all helpful measures intended to relieve distress and suffering were abandoned; that everything of a helpful nature cease, who would want to live where these helpful agencies were all closed for a period? True it is that there is flaws in every organization managed by men; but that does not do away with the fact that the foundation stone of these enterprises is founded right; that the desire is there to properly conduct and discharge duty.

These are but the imperfections which exist, where effort is expended on a large scale. There is the inevitable error which eternally creeps in, but these things should not be laid at the door of the idea sought when the foundation stone was placed; these are but the few failures, the imperfections which serve as guide posts to more faithfully carry forward to a successful conclusion the great ideas sought when these faithful men and women pledge their lives to the faithful carrying out of its precepts.

THE A. E. F.

The A. E. F., which met at Birmingham recently, is in many respects a most remarkable gathering of men and women, consecrated to the duty of teaching the young life of the state by precept and example that which will be of vital service to them in the prosecution of their life's work. Many look upon the vocation of teacher as a most pleasant place. In some respects it is; in many others it is not. It is, when one considers the unfolding of young minds to receive the instruction imparted to them, and to watch the development under the tutelage as it expands and catches on to the different stages of learning. It is not, when tedious explanations are to be made, and minds fail to grasp a fact, all the time the teacher is to be in the best of humor and smilingly try again and again to get the pupil to see the fact.

Many fail to comprehend the many nerve racking situations to which the teacher in the average school is subjected. Many also fail to grasp the very important place filled by these who day in and day out are the custodians of the children, instructing and instilling into their young minds those things which will last and go with them through the years. They are entitled to the utmost confidence and respect, the conscientious teacher. One of their chief assets must be a quality of patience unimpaired.

ATAMAN SEMENOV.

In America, he is called General Semenov. In his native land, he is known as Hemenov, Ataman of Cossacks. The title ataman means chief, an abbreviation of the Russian hetman, or headman. In other words, Semenov is a headman of the Cossacks.

Napoleon said "Scratch a Cossack and you will find a tartar." Senator Borah is doing some industrious scratching on this particular Cossack, and the results of his activities appear to support the Napoleonic legend. The ataman is undergoing an investigation in the civil courts in New York, and witnesses accuse him of murder, robbery, and other crimes of a somewhat Tartarish color. Semenov is a picturesque character; and there are apparently some ugly spots on his career.

When Admiral Kolchak undertook to stem the Bolshevik movement in the region of Chita, Semenov was one of his officers. When the contest grew too desperate for Kolchak, he fled, but he appointed Semenov commander-in-chief, and left him in charge of the anti-Bolshevik forces. The Cossack chief continued the battle as long as he could and finally made his escape by flying over his Bolshevik enemies and landing at Port Arthur.

No doubt this Cossack leader was profoundly surprised to find himself being hauled before the courts and thrown in jail, while on his visit to this country. The idea of putting a commander-in-chief in jail, and trying him in the courts of a foreign country is probably a new leaf in Cossack history. Something like this was promised the Kaiser a few years ago, but for some reason it did not materialize.

Senator Borah claims that Semenov should be tried in the criminal courts of this country and convicted for his atrocities in Siberia. Regardless of the guilt of the accused, or his deserts, this would be a case of rather extensive jurisdiction for an American court. It might work from our standpoint as long as we were trying Russians for their crimes on Russian soil; but when the Russians began to try and punish Americans for their alleged crimes committed in this country, it might not appear as such a good precedent. It is rather singular that so fanatical a believer in an isolated America as Senator Borah should be trying to establish a precedent that would lead to such dangerous international complications.

of his reception, or lack of advertisement. If he could only make a spectacular jail escape, he would be drawing card on the lecture platform, or in the films.—Nashville Tennessean.

ONE MAN WAS WILLING.

Pierce Van Vleck, a Baltimore financier, said at a dinner party:

"Keeping a husband in hot water will never make him tender. Ignorance of this primary truth causes a lot of divorces."

"A Baltimore man got on a street car the other day in anything but a tender mood. His wife, because he could not afford an $800 set of Siberian furs for her, had snatched the morning paper out of his hand, called him a shiftless, knock-kneed failure and thrown his freshly opened package of cigarettes into the stove."

"So this man, his mood not at all tender, got on the car and took a seat beside a gaunt, raw-boned woman of 50 or 60. This woman started an altercation with the conductor when he came to get her fare. The altercation got hotter and hotter, and finally the woman looked around the car and shrieked:

"Is there a gentleman on this car who will stand by and see a lady insulted?"

"The non-tender chap was on his feet at once."

"Yes ma'am," he said, grimly, "I will."—Los Angeles Times.

One can hardly estimate the great damage which is now occurring in portions of Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana. With the waters of this river higher than ever known; with thousands of refugees driven from their homes and taking refuge on the levees, their land flooded and will continue to be for some time to come, precluding the possibility of getting anything like a reasonable start toward the present crop, furnishes some of the serious drawbacks just now being experienced by the citizens along the flood waters of this mighty river. We who are comfortably housed with no menaces like these, can hardly grasp the acuteness of the situation existing there. We are in a favored section, blessed with good health and a reasonably good return from the labors of mind and body; our lands are being planted; fruit is beginning to abound; gardens are producing, and we have every reason to be very thankful indeed that conditions are so well with us. Many have lost their all, and still others who up to this unprecedented rise were safe from the flood waters, now are in danger.

If the senate of the United States could or would only act with the promptness on the Muscle Shoals proposition with which that great body of law makers acted on the appropriation to the flood sufferers of Mississippi and Louisiana, they would be entitled to the best thanks from a patient and waiting people in this neck of the woods. Just three minutes from the time the bill was called up until it was a law. Commendable indeed.

The time will soon be here and many are counting the days.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS FOR SABBATH AND OTHER DAYS

By J. E. Blair

Robert G. Ingersoll is reported to have said, "If there is another life it is a fact in nature and does not depend upon priests or preachers, upon Bibles or creeds." Christianity says Eternal Life is an attainment and a gift—that it is NOT "A fact in nature." Immortality is not necessarily a universal experience. Christ's greatest spokesman, Saint Paul said, "If by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead"—Phil 3-11. Paul evidently thought there might be some doubt about his own attainment of eternal life. He thought of continued existence as a privilege, and as a reward to be gained in part at least by arduous labor. "I count all things but loss," to quote Paul more fully, "that I may win Christ, that I may know Him, and the power of His resurrection; and the fellowship of His suffering, being made conformable unto death, if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead." And he continues, "Not as though I had already attained, nor were already perfected." Eternal life, therefore, is a gradual attainment and a present possession, according to St. Paul. And who would doubt but that immortality is a condition over which human will has an important power? Now adays the general idea as to immortality is too much like the one just quoted from the agnostic Ingersoll. We seem to believe the soul will just naturally inherit eternal life and that the angels of heaven "just growed" as Topsy said she did. Would it not be better to believe the stern scripture taught us before spiritualism, universalism and the like got abroad? Why not accept the Bible statement, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die"? And another "The carnal mind is not subject to spiritual things, neither indeed can it be"? And also those very stern words in the Bible depicting a resurrection unto "damnation?"

What can we recall that we possess, that fits us for eternal life, still we are claiming all Heaven and the fullness thereof! There are said to be people according to the scripture "Whose God is their belly," and even these are claiming seats beside the great white throne. There are the immoral and the false who cheerfully believe they will evolve into angels and arch-angels! In worldly business we do not expect promotion without application and training (unless we are Bolsheviks); so why should we expect divine promotion without meeting the conditions of the divinest book ever printed, and obeying the injunctions of the only divine Being that ever appeared on this earth? If we do not understand earthly things, how can we comprehend heavenly things, to nearly quote the Masters words to Nicodemus. Finally, do you wish to enter the Palace of the King? The key to it is another truth said to Nicodemus and

The Mascot Combination Range

An entirely new principle of gas oven construction is embodied in the Mascot Combination Range. Its remarkable heat efficiency is gained through the patented secondary-air intake, which automatically feeds the proper amount of air simultaneously with the gas. This secondary air is forced through an air chamber in the oven flue, where it is superheated before reaching the oven. Thus warmed air comes in contact with the gas flame, intensifying instead of retarding the heat. The large burner at the bottom of the oven gives an even blue flame that heats to a baking temperature in about half the time of the ordinary combination range. The exit flue, a very important feature in the Mascot, located near the center of the top of the oven, provides escape for all fumes and odors, as well as affording a means of ventilation for the air in exact proportion to the amount taken in. This exit flue insures absolute safety from explosion from gas fumes, which are thrown off to the main flue of the range. It will be seen that the wonderful heat principle of the Mascot Gas, Coal and Wood Range, which is retained intact in the Mascot Gas, Coal and Wood Range, has a counterpart in this new principle of gas oven heating. Remarkable improvements over the ordinary gas range have been made in the top burners, the automatic air feeders giving a solid blue flame, and affording unusual heat-efficiency and fuel economy.

Huntsville Church Gets Next Meeting

greatness of Paul and Moses.

"Delegates to the convention were still arriving Friday evening and at the close of the night session the local committee provided entertainment which was given free after the established custom, but partly disestablished in our modern days by the "Harvard plan" according to which the guests to religious and other gatherings provision themselves after a nights slumber and breakfast at the homes of their hosts and hostesses.

Miss Nannie Mae McKoin of Albany chairman of the entertainment committee, and her assistants met the delegates in the parlor of the church and convenient homes were provided for all. An interesting feature of last night's session was the sight of the different teams of young Baptist active workers from different parts of the state. The Athens young men were noticed as wearing their regalia and light paper caps throughout the services.

The young people exercise some forethought and consult each other freely as to the organization leadership as was shown by the following written message: "How would Charlie Gray do for Mr. Morris' assistant?" Reply "Good, if he could get him." And another message says "Would he be as good as" (name withheld because of the reply, which is as follows): "better"—as comparisons are things that always rub the wrong way.

Friday Afternoon Sunday Schools
The convention was called both for Young People's Societies and for Sunday school development and Friday afternoon addresses were made by Rev. J. R. Stuckey of Sheffield on "Finding and Training Workers"; by Rev. Clay I. Hudson, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Decatur and now pastor of the Cullman Baptist church, on "How the Sunday School Wins the Lost". Dr. W. P. Wilks then spoke on the subject: "What the Sunday School can do for the church," followed by general discussion on the subject "What Next."

In Full Swing Last Night
Last night witnessed the convention in full swing and featured by a remarkable address on "Consecration" by Dr. W. M. Blackwelder, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Huntsville but who is the man who first organized the Central Baptist Congregation many years ago. Dr. Blackwelder's address was preceded by the regular opening song and praise service, with J. E. Lambdin of Montgomery presiding.

The first address was by C. M. Gray of Huntsville, on "What my B. Y. P. U. means to Me," followed by Mr. Lambdin, who spoke on "The State Program of B. Y. P. U. work, and relating the work of the Northern District to the State Work."

Following musical numbers with Mrs. D. D. Gibson as accompanist, Dr. Blackwelder was introduced. The large audience heard as clear and as thoughtful an address on the essentials of Christianity as are contained in the books, and it necessarily took the distinguished visitor some time to complete his statement.

What Dr. Blackwelder said involved almost every phase of the relationship between God and man. He explained that right religious belief was not enough, as lax morals were often possessed by the orthodox, that piousness as to ritualistic rites was not enough, as such observers were often really bad people, that religious rapture was not enough, as rapture "carries us beyond practical religion," that obedience to law was not enough, as there are no ethics that will contain all of Christianity, that good works, service, saving the heathen and all goodness was not enough but that only obedience and the presence of Christ's life and spirit in the soul would suffice. The speaker then discussed how "Separation" such as was effected by Abraham and all acceptable religionists, past and present and the fact of "Dedication" or "Consecration" according to scripture standards.

Near the close Dr. Blackwelder made a heartening appeal to all young Christians to stand firm. He related how certain soldiers under training in a strange land were confronted with the alternative of either fighting for their foreign foes, or for their native land, and that when they heard two songs of their country, they deserted from the ranks of their enemies, and fought for their Fatherland. The speaker reminded that Chris-

The local plant is now the largest plant of its kind in the Tennessee Valley and with the present equipment has capacity to turn out 1000 gallons of ice cream and one ton of butter daily. In addition to this, large quantities of whole milk and sweet cream are pasteurized and shipped to points within a radius of 200 miles of Decatur.

Almon Formally Asks Re-Election

In this issue of the Albany-Decatur Daily will be found the announcement of D. C. Almon for re-election as solicitor of this circuit.

Any man who having had his start in the drudgery of small farm work as a youngster, as a plow hand when older, making his own way and educating himself, all the while polishing and keeping bright his ambition to succeed, reading and studying his law at odd times under the tutelage of the late Judge Kumpke at Moulton, becoming an efficient lawyer, marrying at an early age and becoming the father of a fine family of seven children, two boys and five girls, educating them with the best, keeping them so fitted as to compete successfully with any and all in their lives and giving them every opportunity to be good citizens and go forward with the times, holding the office of circuit solicitor for himself against all comers for 20 years, meeting at all times the pleasures or necessities of life, each with a smile or a cheerful heart, remaining all the while a deserving, good neighbor and citizen, and a kindly man, is worthy of tribute from his fellowships for such a man is Mr. Almon, more intimately known and called "Dave."

Solicitor Almon is sufficiently well-known to the people of this county and these cities to need no introduction. Moving here with his family in 1904, he has been a prominent figure in local civic life and has been at all times eager and willing to assist in the advancement of his home cities and counties. He is announcing his candidacy for re-election as solicitor on his past record which his friends claim is the best of any solicitor in the state. They claim also that his election is to be by a very large majority.

Mr. Almon has the unqualified endorsement of several newspapers in the circuit; namely, the Moulton Advertiser, the Cullman Tribune, the Athens Courier, the Huntsville Daily Times, the Huntsville Telegram, and the Cullman Democrat. He is also endorsed for re-election by the bar and county officers of Lawrence, Madison and Limestone counties.

That Mr. Almon is an efficient solicitor is evidenced by the fact that he continues to be re-elected. That he is a good citizen and neighbor is evidenced by the kindly things that are said of him when one hears of the many deeds his great heart causes him to do.

heard the songs of Zion and the call of the Cross, they must forsake all and follow Christ.

This morning's sessions of the conference were largely given over to reports from the delegates as to what was doing in their local B. Y. P. U. organizations, with address by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lambdin who are the state leaders of the movement among the young people.

The special address were made by Rev. J. R. Stuckey and Dr. W. M. Blackwelder. Rev. Stuckey prefaced his helpful and inspiring address by saying that but for the dam situation at Sheffield being unsettled, he would like to invite the conference next time to his church. Mr. Lambdin replied to this statement by telling the story that he said was doubtless told falsely on two preachers in his home town, Montgomery. They were playing golf, and one kept saying "Muscle Shoals, Muscle Shoals" every time he made a bad drive.

And he replied when questioned—that he used Muscle Shoals, as that was the biggest 'dam' he knew of. Rev. Stuckey said pastors should be busy in every department of the religious game. He said for two reasons he did not depend on preached sermons alone—"First," said the speaker, "because I have not got sense enough to preach a church to victory and secondly I DON'T WANT TO."

He said churches should look after the courting end of young people's lives and not let such matters drift. He advocated new years nightwatch parties, even if Saturday nights, so that the church fathers and mothers could have oversight of the young people on such occasions. Mr. Stuckey encouraged the young people to be truthful even to the extent of criticizing the ministers preaching declaring almost any one could succeed if delivered "from their enemy-friends who bragged their associates up too much." Christians were sojourners and strangers in a strange land, and that when they

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, April 22—Not in many, many years, at least, have the streets of New York City been such a riot of color as they are this spring. Visitors from California used to shiver at the "gloom of our dark blue serge." "You think you have to be positively dreary to be smart and correct," they have told me many times. I hope a lot of them are in town to see as this year. Rose, heliotrope, blues of every shade—except our old time "navy"—yellow, orange, jade green, oh, everything that is bright and radiant and that makes the crowds of girls and women look like a great moving flower garden. I believe its good for us, too. I am almost inclined to believe that the financiers of the country got the costumeurs into a secret session and whispered to them that they held in their hands the key to our "return to normalcy," to cheer, a prosperity. It certainly does make you feel as though the world is a tamer, happier, more prosperous place than it does when black and navy blue are the only colors in sight. Let's give thanks for the tweed suits or whatever it was that brought in his reign of vivid colors for the street!

The diet-enthusiast need no longer stand in dread of hotel meals—when he eats in his own hotel. When the management of the Hotel Commonwealth, the big co-operative enterprise in New York, searched around for other details of hotel life which might be left to the dictation of its owner-guests, it remembered the difficulties which seem to engross a considerable portion of our population in these rushing days. Calories, vitamins, all those imposing things which were unknown to past generations must be taken account of now. Consequently on the hotel menus will be various little group meals, intended for the man or child whose digestion or temperament needs special attention. That this plan will not only work for the health of the Commonwealth patrons, but will impress them still more with the fact that they do own the hotel and can dictate what they get out of it, is the idea of those in charge of the enterprise.

Donald Carl Sharpsteen has gone the Lucy Stone League on better. That organization declares only that a woman should keep her own name after she is married. Donald has given up his and taken his wife's. In the petition filed with the supreme court to allow his change of name, it is pointed out that the legally named Mrs. Sharpsteen, who was Miss Relda Van Ryper before her marriage, holds real estate under her maiden name and has transacted all business in that way and wishes to continue to do so; and apparently the couple agree that it is better for husband and wife to have the same name whatever it may be.

We have been having an interesting and rather upset lot of foreigners arriving at our docks this month. First there came Prince Giovanni Rosignoli and his little daughter, Princess Elena, from Italy. The Prince was perfectly calm and pleased to be here, but little Elena lost her Pekinese dog almost immediately and that evoked a tremendous lot of agitation. Then Ivan Macinoff, whose wife has been appearing in a cabaret here while waiting for him to get here from Russia, bearing "the last will and testament of the Romanoffs," completely disappeared. His wife met him at the pier and arranged to meet him again at the Hudson tube, and he never came. That is more serious, of course, at least for the Macinoffs, than the lost Pekinese. And finally there is the expected appearance of Prince Lukfellan, an Egyptian revolutionist. Among the passengers who reached here from Mediterranean ports, was

Pay Delinquent Taxes At Once

"Pay your delinquent taxes at once, it will help the schools and will save you further costs." This was the word that went out from the Albany city hall today. Officers urged those who owe the city to pay up immediately. The council recently voted an additional appropriation of $3,000 for use of the schools. If the accounts now owed to the city were paid, the city would be able to handle the amount conveniently; it was stated. Thanks.

BIRTH

Miss Dorothy Farnum, author and dramatist, of 23 West 54th street. She explained to her thrilled listeners that she was pursued by this Egyptian Prince, who saw her in Cairo and was instantly enamored. He pursued her around Europe and is supposed to be coming over here shortly.

Inconsistencies are an expected part of life. But the committee in charge of an anti-child-labor organization's entertainment was startled the other day by having an offer of the services of two six-year-old song and dance prodigies to help with the show. It does seem a bit incongruous, but the parents of the children or their managers evidently saw nothing inappropriate in such a billing.

electric energy totaling 1,000,000 horsepower will be developed from the Tennessee river within ten years under terms of Frederick Engstrom's offer for leasing the Muscle Shoals project, it was said today by former Senator Marion Butler, of North Carolina, before the senate agricultural committee.

Butler, in urging acceptance of Engstrom's offer, declared his proposal "would utilize the full resources of the river solely to manufacture nitrate."

The former senator surprised the committee by declaring that the government should, by all means, retain the title to the Muscle Shoals property. "It would be a grave mistake for the government to sell the title," said Butler. "If this is done the government would lose all control over the project and the successful bidder could then utilize the Tennessee river's waterpower for gain."

"I can tell you very frankly that under such circumstances that a small percentage of the waterpower would be used in making nitrate," Butler said. "There are hundreds of other things by which a private concern would make greater profits. The government, of course, would make a contract compelling the purchaser to make a contract compelling the purchaser to make a certain amount of nitrate, but to limit the use solely to nitrate practically eliminate all bidders for the project."

Butler also declared work of renovating the nitrate plant should be undertaken as soon as work is renewed in the dam.

"It will take $4,000,000 to enlarge nitrate plant number one," Butler added, "but when this is done it will be the largest Haber process plant in the world. At plant number 2 it will cost $3,000,000 to renovate it. The cyanamid process machinery must be junked and new machinery installed. This work should be started as soon as work is renewed on Wilson Dam."

Senator Gooding, of Idaho, joined with Butler in declaring that the "greatest need today is for fertilizer."

OLON HARRISON

Olon Harrison was born August 28, 1899, in Lincoln county, Tenn. He with his parents moved to Albany, Ala., in 1904, where he lived until his death, December 18, 1921.

Olon was a lovable character and had in him the making of a great and good man. All who knew him loved him. His sickness was long and drawn out. It was of several months duration, but in all of this he was not known to complain. He was always hopeful and cheerful and was soon led to say: "Not my will, but the will of the Lord be done." A trained nurse was mentioned for him, but he said that his mother was as good nurse as he wanted. He delighted to tell his friends what a wonderful woman his mother was.

This young man joined the Albany North Street Methodist church when a child and remained a member here until the Lord called him home. However he belonged to the Spencer Bible class in Central Methodist church, Albany. Here he was very popular and did much good work.

Several days before he died his parents were called to his bedside where he broke to them the sad news of the rapidly approaching end of his life, but it was all right, live or die, he was the Lord's. Just before the end came, his friends and loved ones were called to his bedside for a farewell message. He told them that he was going away to never return, but to live with Jesus always. He was heard to tell a young man Friday that he would spend Christmas with the Lord. At about this time his mother said: "Oh, son, how hard it is for you to go away." He looked into her face and said: "It is not hard to die if you are prepared." All along he showed that he was very grateful to God for what He had done for him. He told his parents something like this, if you should ever be in doubts just think of the testimony I have left you and where I have gone.

If there were any doubts in the minds of any of the people who were there as to the reality of heaven I am sure that all of them were taken away. I shall never forget it. He talked of going to heaven with just as much composure as a person would plan a trip. When the Lord said that it is enough, come up higher, Olon said to his father: "You may send for the undertaker and waded his hand goodbye. A fellow who can face death as brave and with as much faith in God as did Olon, we know where to find him."

Funeral services were held in the Central Methodist church, Albany. The Spencer Bible class of which he was a member attended in a body. The many floral tributes that were given showed the love the people had for this young man and his good family. His body was laid to rest in the Decatur cemetery to await the resurrection. May God's blessings be upon the bereaved family and loved ones. His pastor, J. W. Carl.

GOODRICH COMPANY MEETINGS HELD

The third of a series of meetings which are being held over the entire South, under the direction of department heads from the factory of the Goodrich Tire and Rubber company of Akron, Ohio, was held in the Twin Cities Friday. A business meeting was held at the Lide service station in Decatur, preparatory to the main part of the meeting which was concluded at the Lyons hotel, where a five course dinner was served, George Menefee, of Birmingham, branch manager acting as toastmaster, at which all the service station dealers in the Decatur district were present.

Immediately after the banquet the dining room was darkened and a moving picture show was put on by representatives from the factory at Akron. This show was designed to better acquaint the service station dealers with every phase of the production of the Goodrich tires. Helpful and instructive talks were made, immediately following the show which lasted one hour, by Messrs. Jones and Hanover, factory representatives, the first named being in charge and the head of the factory advertising department. The last named has charge of the pneumatic tire production of the factory. These gentlemen, in a most pleasing way, told of the activities pursued in their respective departments, bringing to the attention of the dealers the fine points for this well known product.

A feature of these meetings planned for the entire South is the pictures taken of service stations, their equipment, etc., and shown at other places where meetings are held to acquaint the many dealers with unique and effective methods being used at other places. The meeting was greatly enjoyed and was considered as being very beneficial to agents of the company.

'QUEEN OF SHEBA' AT THE PRINCESS MONDAY

"Queen of Sheba" will come to the Princess theatre Monday for two days. Metropolitan critics described the picture as a marvel of beauty, color and dramatic force, and as a spectacle unsurpassed in magnificence. All wrote with wondering approval of the pagantry attending the arrival of the Queen of Sheba at King Solomon's court, and declared the chariot race cheered by 5000 spectators to be one of the most thrilling scenes ever shown in the screen.

Best Crabs From Chesapeake Bay.

The Chesapeake bay blue crab, the largest specimen found along the Atlantic coast, is considered the best. While these crustaceans were very plentiful a few years ago, it is becoming evident that unless a "closed season" is declared, they will become as rare and high priced as terrapin. The little pea crabs, found within oyster shells, are considered a delicacy, while the cancer magister, the large crab of the Pacific coast, is extensively used for food in that part of the country.

What the Harvard Bureau of Business Research Found Out About the Retailer

THE Bureau of Business Research of Harvard University dug out a lot of hard boiled facts about expenses in retail stores. This is what they found:

Out of every hundred cents that passed over the retailers' counters, the merchants kept less than 2 cents profit for themselves.

You probably never knew before how very little profit merchants make. You all know the multiple services rendered by the modern store—searching the markets of the world for the things you need—having them ready for you at the time you want to buy.

Their experts go to the four corners of the world buying goods on the most favorable markets, forming a mighty influence to keep the prices you pay low.

They make it possible for you to fill your needs most conveniently.

The Harvard Bureau of Business Research, in an investigation of 266 retail establishments, found merchandising costs to be divided as follows:

The goods cost net	72.2
Salaries and wages	13.9
Rentals	1.9
Advertising	2.1
Taxes	.6
Interest	2.1
Supplies	.9
Service purchased (Light, Heat, Power and Delivery)	.7
Unclassified	1.7
Traveling	.3
Communication	.2
Repairs	.3
Insurance	.4
Depreciation	.7
Professional services	.1
Total Expenses	25.9
Total Mdse. Cost, plus Expense	98.1
The merchants made	1.9 less than 2 Cents

Few other lines of business are operated on so narrow a profit margin, and no other line of business renders so widespread and intimate a service to us all. Hereafter, before we criticize the retailer and his profits, let's remember how small a part of the dollar the merchant keeps.
